AND THEN CAME Superdent

After centuries of stumbling and groping in the dark-after end less experiments in compounding, medicating, mixing and what-notafter discarding and then trying out again and again all sorts of chalks. Ilmes, magnesias, pumice, cuttle fish and every imaginable sort of grit and abrasive-

WAS IT BY ACCIDENT OR DESIGN THAT NEVADA, OUR WONDER STATE, that has given up her wealth of silver and gold to fill and crown and bridge the teeth of millions, should again be called upon to open wide the doors of her treasure houses and tender to the world the material to safely, surely clean and keep those teeth and crowns and bridges free from contagion and disease and make them instruments of health and beauty? And all without the use of acids, drugs or medication, but just naturally, surely, safely?

Ushered into its sphere of usefulness in the great world's work and misgivings, the triumph of SUPERDEN is finally complete. Writers of national reputation are exploiting its wonders in the press. Magazines of nation-wide circulation are soliciting the stories of this wonderful discovery. SUPERDENT is destined to make one of the fastest and gost sweeping national successes of the decade.
